

Please note:
 This spreadsheet has been created to replicate a Fonte template to aid copying and pasting.
 However there are some rules that have to be followed if the copy and paste is to work.
 Matrices and text can be copied and pasted but the following rules should be followed.

1. Use a full stop "." for a decimal place, not a comma. For example 11.22 NOT 11,22
2. Do not use any separators between 1000. For example 35000.25 NOT 35,000.25
3. If there is no data leave the cell empty. Do not use a 0 or n.a. or any other value.

In the Excel sheet a choice from a list of possibilities is indicated by placing a cross in the cell directly to the right of the selection.
 For example

Yes	x
No

This cannot be copied directly into Fonte, where a radio button or a check box is selected.

Treatment availability
 (tri-annual data collection)

1. Introduction

1.1. Objectives

Data for this questionnaire will need to be submitted to the EMCDDA only every 3 years, starting from 2014.
 This structured questionnaire on drug treatment addresses the policies and interventions that Member States have established to provide evidence-based drug treatment.
 It is aimed at collecting data through which a European synopsis of the organisational framework of national drug treatment systems can be drawn up, and an overview of availability, accessibility and diversification of drug treatment can be provided.

1.2. Definitions

Drug Treatment : same as in the TDI protocol
 Specialised Drug Treatment Centres : Specialised drug treatment centres comprise public or private, governmental or non-governmental facilities which specialise in and whose primary focus is the treatment of drug dependence on an outpatient basis. Note that primary focus indicates the services the facility primarily provides.
 Low-threshold Agencies (LTA) :The term 'low-threshold' describes an implementation setting that facilitates drug users' access to health and social services, in particular those that help to prevent and reduce health-related harm associated with drug use. To encourage drug users to enter into contact, the use of these services typically requires little bureaucracy, often no payment, and is not conditional upon being or becoming drug-free. They target current users, 'hard-to-reach' and high-risk groups among drug users and experimental users.
 General Practitioners (GPs) : The term 'GPs' is used to report drug treatment provided by medical doctors in private practice.
 Treatment Units in Prisons (PRI) : Treatment Units in prison are facilities (dedicated physical spaces) inside prisons where qualified socio-medical staff (external or internal to the prison, but employed or delegated by the prison health administration) deliver treatment services to prison inmates.
 Hospital-based Residential Drug Treatment Units : Specialist medical, psychiatric and/or psychosocial treatment services that address drug dependency, carried out in hospitals (often psychiatric hospitals or psychiatric wards in general hospitals).
 Residential Drug Treatment Centres (non-hospital setting) : Treatment environments in which drug-dependent individuals live together and follow a programme of counselling or therapy in order to achieve social and psychological change. A range of theoretical approaches, including family, psychodynamic, cognitive-behavioural therapy, medical or 12-step approaches may underpin residential treatment programmes.
 Therapeutic Communities : Typically a drug-free environment in which drug-dependent individuals live together in an organised and structured way in order to promote social and psychological change. The central philosophy is that residents are active participants in their own and each other's treatment and that responsibility for the daily running of the community is shared among residents and staff members.
 Drug substitution treatment / maintenance therapy : Treatment of drug dependence by prescription of a substitute drug (agonists and antagonists) for which cross-dependence and cross-tolerance exists, with the goal to reduce or eliminate the use of a particular substance, especially if it is illegal, or to reduce harm from a particular method of administration, the attendant dangers for health (e.g. from needle sharing), and the social consequences. (Demand Reduction – A Glossary of terms, UNDCP, no year). Substitute drugs used in substitution/maintenance therapy are prescribed in relatively stable doses over a long period of time (usually more than three months), which allows stabilization of brain functions and prevention of craving and withdrawal. Usually it is combined with some psychosocial interventions for continued care.

26. Access to opioid substitution treatment

26.1. Access to opioid substitution treatment

26.1.1 How usual is it for clients to have to wait before starting opioid substitution treatment?

No waiting time
< 2 weeks
Between 2 weeks and 1 month
More than 1 month and < 6 months
More than 6 months
No information

Notes: Treatment starts as soon as a client begins a formalised face-to-face contact with the treatment provider. The waiting time is the difference between the start of opioid substitution treatment and the first contact.

26.1.2 If in question above was More than 6 months , please provide the national average waiting time?

26.1.3 If there is a waiting time, please specify the reason:

Limited availability / resources
Formal procedural reasons (1)
Other (2)

No information

Notes: (1) Waiting time is due to administrative procedures. Eg.: funding application at health insurance, etc. (2) Please specify Other in the question below.

26.1.4 Please specify Other :

Legal framework for opioid substitution treatment (amendments of the legal framework for OST).

Please refer to the Statistical Bulletin 2014 Table HRS-2 (to be published in May 2014) and check whether the information already available to the EMCDDA is still valid and correct. Should changes have occurred, please provide the details in the question below.
